Controversy Over Budget Balancing May Help Pierce Financial Fog of Last Six Years

By JOHN T. FLYNN
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

The controversy which is arising about the proposed new-style, slick method of keeping the nation's books may turn out to be one of those things which will help to clear up some foggy ideas about national finance which have been persisting for six years.

Injuries Fatal to John W. Owen, 29, Here Early Friday

Municipal Light Lineman Succumbs in Hospital at 12:45 a. m.

FUNERAL SATURDAY
Services to Be Held From First Baptist Church at 10 a. m.

John Wendell Owen, 29, died at 12:45 a. m. Friday in Julia Chester hospital as the result of injuries sustained Wednesday morning in a 20-foot fall from a tree to the pavement on Shover street.

Critically injured in the accident, Mr. Owen failed to respond to medical aid, his condition growing gradually worse until the end. He sustained a fractured skull, fractured and dislocation of both elbows and compound fracture of the right leg at the knee.

Headline man for the municipal-owned water and light plant, he was engaged in repair work on an electric light line when he stepped on a dead limb of the tree which gave way under his weight precipitating him to the pavement 20 feet below.

Born near Patmos, he moved to Hope with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Owen, when a child. He was a graduate of Hope High School and later attended Texas A. & M. college at College Station, Texas.

He returned to Hope and had been connected with the Hope water and light plant for the past several years.

Funeral Saturday
Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday from First Baptist church, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. W. R. Hamilton, and assisted by the Rev. Kenneth Spore, pastor of First Methodist church. Burial will follow in Rose Hill cemetery.

Surviving are his widow and small daughter, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Owen, three sisters, Mrs. Nelson Wylie, Mrs. James M. Case, and Miss Minnie Owen, all of Hope, and one brother, Ralph Owen, of Shreveport.

The Pallbearers
The active pallbearers will be Frankie Barr, Clyde Martin, Norman Moore, Clyde Zinn, Herbert Lewallen, Hubert Elliott.

Independent Teams to Play This Year at High School Gym

On Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock an organization meeting will be held for the Independent Basketball League.

Prospects are good for at least a four team league, it was announced Friday by Earl W. Erion. The High School gymnasium has been secured for league play and any independent team in this locality is urged to play with this organization. Each year the recreation division of the WPA sponsors a statewide independent basketball tournament. County winners play in a district tournament and district winners compete in Little Rock in the state play-off.

Last year the district tournament was held in Ashdown but this year it is planned to hold it in Hope. The only eligibility rule is a player must not be playing on a high school team. All other are eligible.

Booker Morrison Commits Suicide

Columbus Negro Uses Shotgun to End His Life Friday

Booker Morrison, 31-year-old negro, committed suicide by shooting himself to death at his home Friday noon at Columbus; Coroner J. H. Weaver reported after making an investigation.

The coroner said the negro ended his life with a single barrel shotgun, the lead penetrating the heart. Death was instantaneous.

The negro had been sitting by the fireside in his room alone. He left no letters or notes to the family. He had been in ill health the past three years, Dr. Weaver reported.

Legislature Sends Auto-Test Repeal Bill to Governor

Opposition Loses Fight to Sidetrack Bill in Committee

PLAN 4-YEAR TERM

Constitutional Amendment Offered for Officials' Terms

BULLETIN
LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Governor Bailey said late Friday he would not sign the Diales bill to repeal the auto-testing law of 1937. Without his signature the bill would become a law within five days, unless the gubernatorial veto is invoked.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The senate completed Friday legislative repeal of the 1937 auto testing law by passing the house bill by Diales of Polk county, 27 to 6, after an unsuccessful fight to send the measure to committee.

The bill now goes to Governor Bailey. In the house, Rep. Henry V. Young, of Marion county, proposed in a concurrent resolution the submission of a constitutional amendment to fix the term of the governor and other state officials at four years.

The proposed amendment would apply to all state, district, county and township officers, and members of the house of representatives.

Under the proposal officials would not be eligible to succeed themselves more than one term in succession. Overriding the lone dissent of Senator W. H. Abington, of Beebe, the senate adopted a joint resolution calling upon members of the state's congressional delegation to support President Roosevelt's national defense program.

The house adopted a senate bill consolidating the probate and chancery courts.

The senate adjourned until 2 p. m. Monday.

Civil Service Repealer

LITTLE ROCK—Renunciation of a merit system for Arkansas's employees was voted by the Arkansas House, 64 to 28, late Thursday.

Vote on a civil service repeal bill, H. B. 14 by J. E. Smith of Randolph, was taken before public hearing could be called on four house bills to repeal and amend the state's 19-month-old civil service statute, and without debate on the issue.

Over protests of several representatives who sought to delay a vote on the question of repeal, amendment or retention of the state's merit system, pending a public hearing called Thursday night, Representative Smith succeeded in suspending the rules and withdrawing his bill from the House Roads and Highways Committee to which he had referred it, for third reading and final action.

Vesey and Weisenberger, of Hempstead, voted for the repealer.

Test Act Repealer
The General Assembly will complete its action for repeal of Arkansas's two-year-old automobile test law Friday, barring a "hitch" in plans announced Thursday after the house and senate passed separate bills for repeal by overwhelming majorities.

House Bill No. 16, a repeal bill by Representative Roy L. Riales of Menz, carried in the House, 84 to 7. It was made a special order of business for the senate who will convene at 10 Friday morning.

Quick passage of the Riales bill by the Senate was predicted after the Senate adjourned.

Willisville Takes Bobcats, 32 to 27

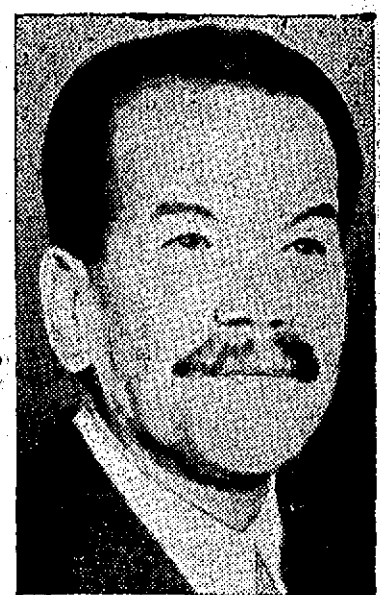

Bodcaw Also Eliminated in Tri-County Cage Tournament

PRESCOTT, Ark.—Prescott High School's Curt Wolves eliminated the Bodcaw basketball team, winners of the 1938 Prescott invitational cage tourney and favorites to repeat from the championship bracket here Thursday night with a 35 to 28 win. The victory placed the Wolves in the finals against the Willisville cagers who advanced into the finals with a 32 to 27 win over the Hope Bobcats.

The Wolves and Willisville will meet in the championship game here Saturday night.

In the consolation bracket, Emmet was swamped by Gurdon 30 to 16. Laneburg appeared well on its way to win over Rosston, leading 22 to 8 at the half. Gurdon will meet the winner of the Laneburg-Rosston game Saturday night for the consolation championship.

Dictators Are Not the Whole Show in the South Americas

Pedro Aguirre Cerda, Chile's new president, takes office by virtue of a coalition of leftist elements joined even by the Chilean Nazis, so complete was the reaction against recent rightist governments.

Victor Haya de la Torre, the will o' the wisp of Peru, is a fugitive in his native land, but nevertheless a leader followed by thousands all over South America in a native radical movement which exerts great influence.

Frank Gannett and Secretary Ickes Debate Liberty of Press

Ickes Cites Power & Paper Co's Stock Holdings in Newspapers—Gannett Points to Press Defense of Supreme Court

NEW YORK—(AP)—Secretary Ickes and Frank Gannett debated Thursday night the question "Do We Have a Free Press?" the newspaper publisher saying "yes," and the cabinet officer saying the press had been put in "shackles" by private interests and owners, themselves. Gannett contended that "no other form of press control" need be feared, given freedom from "governmental domination or censorship."

Their speeches were prepared for "America's town meeting of the air," the broadcast nationally.

Ickes said that in April, 1929, the Federal Trade Commission had found that the International Paper & Paper Company "owned all of the preferred stock and 30 per cent of the common stock of the Knickerbocker Press and the Albany Evening News, as well as a sizable share of the Ithaca (New York) Journal News."

"These papers were and still are Gannett properties," he added. "Following this disclosure Mr. Gannett hastened to refinance. I ask you, during the time that this paper and power company had a very large interest in the Gannett newspapers, was Mr. Gannett free?"

Enmity of Roosevelt

Gannett, suggesting Ickes should "turn to a real danger," added: "Let him join me in asking for a prompt and thorough congressional investigation of this great menace of government subsidized propaganda."

"The 'blue and grey' against the press, the publisher said, had arisen because 'when President Roosevelt tried to break down the American constitution by packing the Supreme Court and reducing it to a yes court, the press stood up and fought honestly and courageously in its editorials against the one-man rule embodied in the iniquitous court bill—and helped beat it.'"

"It is because the press bravely raised its voice of warning when three men, chosen by Mr. Roosevelt, drafted the original reorganization bill," he went on. "No wonder the editorial opinion of the press opposed it. For this extraordinary measure was written in such a spirit of contempt for democracy that it authorized Mr. Roosevelt to abolish or change the name and functions of every office in the government, constitutional or otherwise."

"In the third place, it is because the press fought and beat the so-called May war bill. It was, in reality, no war bill, but it went far beyond any measure ever devised in the interest of carrying on war. It clothed the president with a complete economic dictatorship."

'Financial Pressure'

Ickes said he did not intend to "bring an indictment against the press as a whole, but I charge, and the record will bear me out, that while as to government regulation and control the press of America is free it is not because of its own financial and economic ties—what it should be, a free servant of a free democracy."

"The chief accusations" made by the people against the press, he said, were: "First, that it has financial affiliation, or is subject to financial pressures,"

Powerful Radical Factions Are Curb on Fascist Dream

Leftist Government Has Control in Peru, Strong Elsewhere

MEXICO, A LEADER

Middle of Road Is Compromise Between Political Extremes

This is the third of a series of four articles on South America.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

A great tide of political change is rolling across South America just as it is across the rest of the world. By that is meant not the kind of puny baroque-revolution that has given Ecuador 13 governments in three years, but a real awakening of the "plain people."

That tide is leaving its impress on even the most dictatorially-run countries. In Peru, where President Benavides rules in admitted defiance of the returns of the last election, his government moves toward progress in many directions. Many of its activities are quite similar to those of Mexico, where a left government rules. Gigantic public works—roads, irrigation projects and buildings, a widespread social security system, government-run restaurants where working men can dine well and cheaply, public housing projects.

Tide May Have Turned

Why? Because just as in Europe dictators know that they rule only by virtue of the fact that they are doing some things for the people's benefit, so in South America radical movements and the upsurge of hitherto negligible masses of people are so strong that even dictators must swim with the tide.

This pressure may already have turned the tide against Fascist influence. For the first time an elected leftist government has been allowed to take office. This is in Chile. Several times such regimes have been elected in various Latin-American countries only to be jockeyed out of power by a palace revolt or military coup. In Chile a "united front" similar to that which recently governed France, is in power.

So much has been written about the Fascist penetration in South America, and about alleged Communist penetration, that little has been said about South America's native brand of leftist radicalism, the Aprista Movement.

Aprista Leader Is Fugitive

The leader of this movement, Victor Haya de la Torre, is at present a fugitive in his native Peru, but the movement is felt in almost every South American country. It is closely linked to the ABC revolutionary movement in Cuba. Mexico is attempting to bring its own revolutionary party closer to the Apristas.

In fact, Mexico, as the only southern country which has established revolutionary government as a going concern, today occupies a position similar to that which Russia occupied in Europe in 1919. It is a natural leader of revolutionary movements.

Mexico is making strenuous efforts to cultivate the South American revolutionaries. She sent Regis Spindola to Cuba, Fernando Galvan to Brazil, and the Argentine, Venezuela, Colombia and most of Central America have been covered by Mexican emissaries.

Out of Conflict, the Middle Way

Part of Mexico's strategy is to gain support for her own policies, especially the oil expropriations. The remainder is simply the yen for evangelization which lies close to the heart of all revolutionaries.

Does this mean that South American

Sale of Property of Bank Rejected

Mortgage Holders Believe Private Sales Will Bring Higher Prices

Approximately 75 per cent of the property of the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co., insolvent, sold at public auction here December 7, has been rejected, W. S. Atkins, deputy bank commissioner in charge, said Friday.

There is a possibility that the majority of the other 25 per cent will also be rejected, Mr. Atkins added. The state banking department and holders of first mortgages on the property feel that the property failed to bring its true value and that probably private sales would hike the value substantially, Mr. Atkins pointed out.

Among the 56 pieces of real estate property sold at the public auction was the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. building. Sale of the building has been rejected by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, holder of the first mortgage.

At public auction, the highest bid was offered by T. S. Grayson, Magnolia banker. He bid $12,850.

Since the sale was conducted, private bids have been offered on several pieces of the property at substantially higher prices than offered "under the hammer," Mr. Atkins said.

Depositors of the bank had been paid 86 1/2 cents on the dollar prior to the sale—and it is believed that the remaining assets of the bank—the 56 pieces of real estate property—will benefit the depositor in large dividends if private sales are made instead of letting the real estate go at public auction.

2 Men Wounded in Desperate Attempt to Reach Waters of Bay

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(AP)—Five desperate prisoners attempted to escape from fog-shrouded Alcatraz island prison early Friday.

Two were shot and wounded before guards captured the quintet.

James V. Bennett, prison bureau director, said the prisoners made an escape by saving their way out of the cell block.

Among the prisoners who attempted to escape was Arthur (Doc) Barker, serving a life sentence for kidnaping, who was drilled through the head and leg and critically wounded.

"They got out of the cell building about 4 a. m.," Warden James Johnson said in a brief statement, "and in the fog that enveloped the island they attempted to get into the water. But they were so desperate in their efforts to get to the water that two of them were shot before they halted."

The second prisoner shot was Dale Stampfill, 27, serving a life-term for kidnaping in Oklahoma.

Story of Banking Told to Rotarians

C. C. Spragins Traces Growth of Business and Its Regulation

The story of the rise of modern banking from the days of barter and simple money-changing was told to Hope Rotary club Friday by C. C. Spragins, cashier of Citizens National bank, who has been with the bank continuously since its founding in 1902.

The modern banking system had its origin in Venice, Italy, in 1587, Mr. Spragins said, and the first bank-notes were issued in Sweden in 1661.

The first bank in the United States was the Bank of North America, Philadelphia, formed in 1782.

Mr. Spragins recalled the complicated history of the first bank ever organized in Arkansas—making an excursion by the state government into the banking business. This was the Real Estate Bank, founded with a capital of one million dollars. It lasted three years—and was 39 years in the process of liquidation.

In the period 25 years ago, said Mr. Spragins, it wasn't unusual for highly solvent banks to find themselves short of currency. Sometimes it was necessary, in place of greenbacks, to use "John Doe" money, which was simply a St. Louis bank's cashier's checks made out in denominations of $5 and $10.

This situation, he said, led to the formation of the Federal Reserve System.

The general banking moratorium of 1933, he added, resulted in the latest banking regulation—the establishment of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, which insures all deposits up to $5,000 per depositor.

Twenty-five years ago, he said, Hope had bank deposits of 1/2 million. Today local bank deposits are approximately 2 1/2 millions.

Guests of the Rotary club Friday were Harrison Shepard, of Hot Springs, and S. H. Cadenhead, secretary of Prescott Chamber of Commerce.

Only Shortage Is in Skilled Workmen, Says President

Adolf and the Ladies

Until now, Hitler has enjoyed the pretty general approval of the feminine population of Germany. He was described as handsome when he first came to power and there were some of them who believed he had brought about better days for the German nation.

But when he issued his call for German girls for labor on the farms and in households barely a hundred thousand responded.

Now he has issued an order that all girls who seek private or state jobs must furnish evidence they have labored for a year on farms or in households. He said nothing about pay, and that year of hard labor may be just a patriotic requirement.

The ladies, it is reported, have now learned that Adolf is not the handsome cavalier they once thought him.

Secretary Perkins' Report

There is a pleasant surprise and numerous words of commendation in the annual report of Secretary of Labor Perkins. Madame Perkins has not been the most popular individual in the cabinet but she is deserving of applause for her report.

The surprise note is that in 1927, which will be remembered as a year of many strikes, the total of strikes and lockouts was only 8 per cent greater than the total of 1927.

The commendation in madame's own words follows: "We cannot arrive at a perfect way of life overnight, but the signs are clear in American life that intelligent, patriotic and far-sighted employers and informed, forward-looking labor are already building the structure of an American way of labor relations of which we will be proud, because it will be effective, productive and democratic."

That paragraph is something to be repeated and remembered.

Depressions Normal?

At 80, Suffragist Carrie Chapman Catt tells NEA Writer Marian Young that she has decided "a depressive state of affairs is normal and that a boom is not."

Mrs. Catt, who saw her long fight to enfranchise women climaxed with the suffrage amendment in 1920, makes this observation not as one who herself is depressed or disillusioned but as one who has watched closely the nation's economic and political workings for 60 years.

"Only four times in my 80 years have I seen what we are pleased to call 'good times,'" says Mrs. Catt. "There have been depressions of one sort and another through all the remaining years."

Certainly no one could with reason accuse Mrs. Catt of resignation to the inevitability of things as they are—her whole fighting career gives the lie to that. So her comment on depressions probably carries a goodly share of mellowed wisdom.

Massage Should Always Know State of Patient's Heart.

The expert masseur sometimes applies squeezing movements in which the fingers and hands or sometimes in which the superficial tissues of the body are compressed between the fingers or hand and the underlying structures. In the first method the masseur takes up the skin between the fingers and thumb and rolls it one itself. In kneading movements the muscle tissue is taken up itself in the hands and squeezed. In friction movements the hand is placed on the skin and the skin is rubbed in such a manner as to squeeze material out of the skin and to disperse collections of fluid. Some times in these movements a vibrating with the hand.

This causes contraction of the muscles improves circulation and usually leaves the person who has been massaged with a feeling of well being.

The third main type of movement in massage is percussion or tapment. This is a most powerful form of massage varying from the mildest tap on the surface of the skin to tapping with especially devised mallets over protective boards. The general effect of such movements is to produce a healthy glow throughout all the tissues.

The masseur is able to tell whether or not the massage is causing increase of pain and swelling and decrease in ability to move the tissues or whether it is decreasing the pain and swelling and increasing the motion.

One of the chief dangers of massage lies in the disturbance of clots in the tissues which may result from inflammation within the blood vessels or of damage to swollen organs. Unless the masseur or masseuse is guided, therefore, by medical information as to the health of the patient, there may be serious results as well as beneficial ones. Increase in pain is a danger sign.

The other great danger of massage is the stimulation of tissues which require rest as the main element toward recovery. It is possible to insure reactions even in paralyzed limbs sufficiently, vigorous manipulation but where as a normal muscle can protect itself from injury by contraction, a slightly paralyzed muscle does not have this ability. In such cases massage may do far more harm than good.

For these reasons, massage in the presence of disease of any type should never be attempted except under the direction of or in co-operation with the physician.

The Hinton Home Demonstration Club met on Tuesday, January 10, at the community club house. Mrs. Berlin Jones was hostess. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. R. E. Adams, president. The devotional was given by Miss Bullington, also the government taxation lesson which was followed by a round table discussion on the farm-family living outlook for 1930. Each member present answered roll call with what she wished to accomplish in home improvement during the year.

A handsome purse was exhibited by the home demonstration agent. The hostess served delicious refreshments during the social half-hour.

Would I could write a song that would beguile
All hearts of pain and leave a last-

But smiles are lovely, only when they grow Twist pain and heartaches row by row
"Cry not" and "Grieve not" are words
we never say.
Too real is anguish to be soothed that way.
I whisper only, "Wait a little while,
Some day shall grief make lovelier your smile,
Some day you shall remember and be glad To count the hours of happiness you've had;
But all the brave and gentle souls you know
Have planted heartaches row by row."

Peter Sees Christ's Glory
Text: Matthew 17:1-9, 14-18

The story of the transfiguration lifts us somewhat out of and above the normal experiences of life and the daily relationship of Jesus with His disciples.

That such an incident should have taken place in itself very significant, and it seems to suggest that something more is necessary in religious faith and experience than just the normal and usual day-by-day devotion, in spirit and to one's tasks.
Why should unusual experiences be necessary?

I suppose it is because if there were no such experiences one would tend to become discouraged through not seeing things in their right perspective and getting the sort of vision that is only possible where one ascends to some place that is above the ordinary level.

In our physical life we realize quite clearly the meaning of ascent into a high hill or a mountain top. That man is dull indeed whose mind and soul do not thrill to the vision from a mountain top.

Why did Jesus take with Him only James, Peter and John? Why did He not take with Him all the disciples?
The answer is that if He had taken them all, it would have lacked the quality of unusual experience.

He took these three because they were the three who either most needed the heights of experience, or because they were the three most foremost disciples who, if their own faith was strengthened and inspired, would be most calculated to strengthen and inspire others.

The very fact that Peter was so impulsive, and that James and John were so filled with ambition, made these men open to the temptations that beset life impulsive and that are apt to overwhelm men who set for themselves very high goals when they do not seem to be attaining their object.

The mountain-top experience may seem strange to us. We do not know just what happened. We call it the transfiguration, and Jesus in some way was glorified before these disciples in such a way that His very appearance became illuminated and splendid. Also there appeared with Him in the vision the great leaders of Israel, Moses and Elijah. They also heard the voice proclaiming Jesus as the Beloved Son.

It was no wonder that they fell on their faces, and that fear came upon them. Perhaps it was awe rather than fear. At any rate, they were restored to the human touch as Jesus came and touched them and bade them arise and be not afraid. Then came the return to normal experience as they saw Jesus only, and came down from the mountain top.

A few verses on, we are brought back onto the level of ordinary experience, of trial and sorrow and doubt, as there comes a man seeking healing for his son, who is an epileptic.
Jesus seemed to interpret the complaint that the disciples could not cure him as a distrust of the wonder-working power, for it brought out
His reference to a faithless generation.
But He healed the epileptic. The criticisms of the Master had always benefited them. His gentleness, loving kindness, and power and willingness to bless.

animals, washing and re-washing its food in stream or lake water before it eats.

A Book a Day By Bruce Catton

The American Indian is still good copy. True, he has lost most of his original color. But two new books go far to recreate this unbridled first American.

They are "Indian Cavalade" by Clark Wissler (Sheridan House: $3) and
"Son of Old Man Hat" by Walter Dyk (Harcourt, Brace: $3.50). To read either is to gain a new understanding of the sensitive red man that civilization pushed from the frontier.

Mr. Wissler is a close student of Indian life. He is curator-in-chief of the American Museum of Natural History.
His book deals largely with the transition period of the American Indian at the turn of the century "when the Old West was all but gone."

It is not a pleasant picture that Mr.
Wissler paints. He visited reservations and Indian tribes from the Mississippi to the Pacific. He saw the corruption of the Indian agents, the bungling attempt to adjust the red man to the new environment of towns and farms, the errors of administration in Washington, the utter lack of understanding of the delicate nature of the Indian problem.

You are pretty certain to agree when you have finished that there is a great deal to be said for whatever the Indian is today.
Mr. Dyk's story is different. His is the recorded autobiography of a young Navajo Indian. It is unique in that it covers every detail of life of this Navajo, "Son of Old Man Hat," up to the age of 20. You will find it one of the clearest expositions of the inex-plorable Indian character you will find anywhere.—P. G. F.

Willisville Wins Two From Bodcaw

Senior Boys and Girls Defeat Badgers in Own Gymnasium

BODCAW, Ark.—The Willisville Senior teams, both boys and girls, won two hard fought basketball games in the Bodcaw gymnasium Monday night, January 9th.

The Senior girls of Willisville defeated the Bodcaw Senior girls 18-3. Walters and Silvey leading high point men scored eight points each. Rodgers scored two.

The Willisville Senior boys won by a majority of four points, the score being 24-20. Simpson of Willisville was leading man which was a total of 8 points. West followed by five; Martin and Riley tied with four which makes a total of 24.

Willisville's next game will be January 14th against Smackover.

The latest figures available, 1935, show that United States' cattle population is around 68,000,000 head.

Abington Tries to Void Public Vote

But Legislature Refuses Action Against Amendment No. 32

LITTLE ROCK.—In one of the most weird and bewildering legislative sessions in recent Arkansas history, the state's 134 lawmakers sat in joint conference in the house chamber Thursday and heard motions by Senator W. H. Abington of Beebe seeking to force the speaker of the house to declare void the action of 63,414 Arkansas voters in casting ballots for adoption of Amendment 32 to the state constitution at the 1938 general election.

The amendment contained provision for a run-off primary, which politicians declared after the election had escaped their attention, although the provision was cited repeatedly in front page editorials.

After the house and senate had met jointly to hear Speaker John M. Bransford canvass the vote and certify results of ballots on initiative and referendum proposals submitted at the 1938 general election, Dr. Abington halted the proceedings.

"Is it all right for me to ask a question?"

"Certainly," the speaker replied.

"Well, when you get to Amendment 32, stop. I want to make a motion."

The speaker halted when he came to Amendment 32.

Abington walked to the nearest microphone and said:

"It is my opinion that when this amendment to the constitution was about to be adopted the people were unaware of the provision of this amendment. They were deceived to some extent."

He moved that the secretary of state be directed not to certify the amendment as having been adopted.

Speaker Bransford advised him the secretary of state already had done so.

Most of the legislators were silent and bewildered at the unprecedented motion. Representative S. Herman Horton of Craighead raised the point of order that the motion was out of order.

Lieut. Gov. Bob Bailey, who was presiding as president of the Senate, ruled the motion was "unusual" but not out of order.

Dr. Abington then moved that the joint session refuse to declare it adopted. Someone said that the joint session had no power to declare anything, and that it was the business of the speaker to declare the results of the general election.

"Then I move that the speaker not certify it has having been adopted—anything to get action," Dr. Abington said. He asked whether a motion at a joint session was unusual.

After adjournment of the joint session Speaker Bransford said:

"I'm going to certify that vote as it is there" (He pointed to the certificate tion sent up from the secretary of state) "and they can file their objections if they want to."

He told the session: "Personally, I don't think we have a thing to do with this."

Powerful Radical

countries have no choice except between domination by dome-grown Fascist movements guided on European models, and revolutionary governments steered from Mexico or Moscow? Not at all. The conflict between the two is a good augury for republican government.

Chile is an example. In the united effort to beat Gustavo Ross, the conservative candidate, Socialists, Communists, Agrarians, Nazi-Fascists, Radicals joined hands. Pedro Aguirre Cerda, their candidate, won by a nose. And he took office without disorder, despite the fact that the country was still agitated by the slaughter attending an abortive Nazi putsch last September.

Many in One During the campaign, democracy was stressed. Even the more radical of Aguirre's supporters shelved the "class struggle stuff" and all emphasis was on civil rights and republican preservation of individual liberty. Such a platform was able to carry to victory elements as diverse as Aguirre's supporters.

Argentina represents the rise of a new native capitalism to set off against the native radicalism. Most developed of any South American country, Argentina is rapidly increasing its financial interest in Paraguay, Bolivia, and Uruguay.

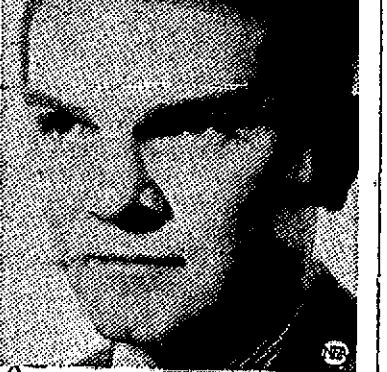

Thus between radical movements reaching downward from Mexico and Peru, and an expanding capitalism like a new "Colossus of the South" from Argentina, South America may soon find conflicts that can only be peacefully resolved under free republican influence.

Hitler Asks Italy to Wait Year on Colonial Demands

Meanwhile, Germany Rejects "Special Rights" for Americans

IL DUCE OBSTINATE

"No" to Chamberlain—Spanish Rebels Advance Toward Sea

By the Associated Press

The German government disclosed Friday it had rejected a request by the United States for "special rights" regardless of race or creed, for American citizens in Germany.

At the same time, Reichsfuehrer Hitler was reported reliably in Rome to have stepped into British Prime Minister Chamberlain's appeasement visit by urging Italian Premier Mussolini to help keep Europe's peace for one year before demanding fulfillment of Italy's "natural aspiration."

Meanwhile it was reported authoritatively that Mussolini had refused to "retreat one inch" from his colonial demands on France.

This information, reports said, was conveyed to Chamberlain before the reported delivery of the message to Mussolini from Hitler.

In Spain Generalissimo Franco's armies marched steadily closer to the government seaboard, threatening an early conquest of all lower Catalonia, and intensifying the danger to Barcelona, the government capital.

SERIAL STORY

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Mr. Bryant, Janet's attorney, called her asking why she came to see him since there are some very important matters to discuss.

CHAPTER VI

WHEN Janet carried her bills up to her own room, she was shocked and incredulous to find out how much she had spent during the past month.

There were several considerable items that Cynthia had charged to her account. On previous occasions Cynthia had charged things to her, and Aunt Mary had paid for them as a matter of course.

But I can't give the bills to Aunt Mary this time, Janet thought. Not after this afternoon.

The whole thing came to considerably more than her balance at the bank. Her dressmaker's bills were still to come; and aside from the fact that she would need a great deal of ready money during the next few days, there was, Lance had told her, an immediate payment due upon the house.

She must make sure, when she talked to Mr. Bryant tomorrow, to arrange for those payments. And perhaps, after all, there might be enough margin to take care of the difference between the rent on this apartment and that of the smaller one Aunt Mary talked of taking at the Avalon.

Janet had just thrown the last envelope into the wastebasket when Aunt Mary opened the door.

"Janet Dwight!" she cried, sweeping down upon her niece with all the indignant authority of her five feet two. "Do you mean to tell me that you haven't taken off those wet things yet? Get them off this minute, and yourself into a hot tub of water. After that, you're going to bed."

"But, Aunt Mary," Janet protested, "I'm not ready to go to bed. Besides, I want my dinner. This business of rushing around getting ready to be married burns up the calories."

"I did not ask you whether or not you were ready," Aunt Mary placidly folded hands which, not so many years ago, had so capably wielded a switch. When Aunt Mary spoke in that tone, Janet almost forgot for the moment that the switch was not still at hand.

"Marry will bring you a tray in due time."

SO Janet soaked in fragrant warm suds for a luxurious half hour; then she slipped into a soft green negligee, and after the hot soup,

Arkansas to Meet Texas in 2 Games

Porker's Chances of Staying in Conference Running at Stake

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—Two early season victims—Arkansas and Texas—play a two-game series here Friday and Saturday night that can easily put one, or both, in the Southwest Conference basketball shadows.

Twice beaten by Southern Methodist last week-end, the Arkansas Porkers, handicapped by another long jaunt from their Fayetteville hideout, must make good here or retain nothing more than a slender mathematical chance at the title they won last year.

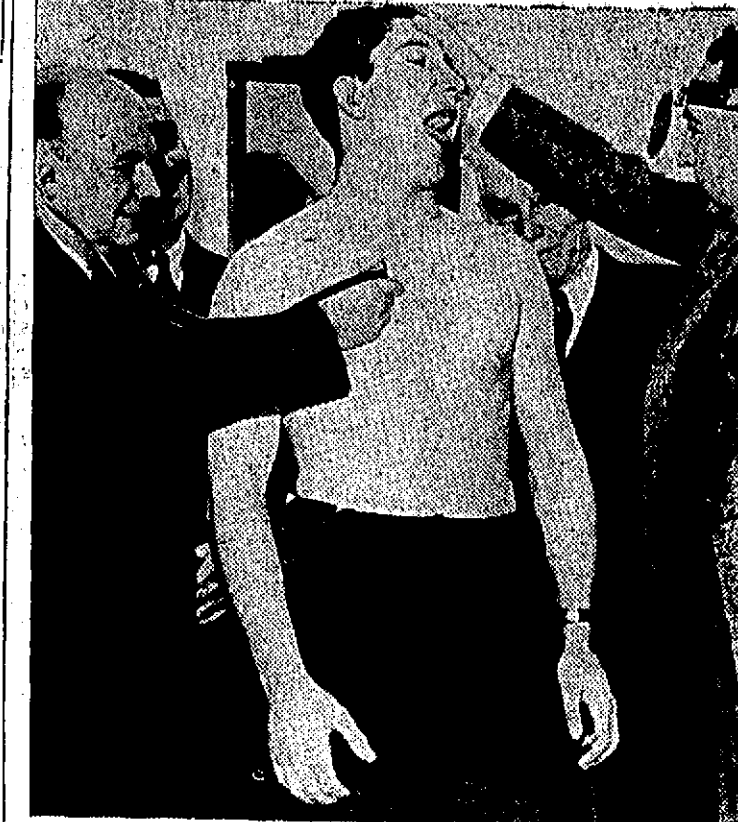

Texas, on the other hand, was floored in its opening appearance against Rice Institute last week and needs the Arkansas series to get back close to their old standing of pre-schedule favorites.

Arkansas, although badly off their shooting form in the Methodist series, will start the same five—Adams and Captain Neil Martin at forwards; the six foot, eight inch Freiburger at center and Gehmml and Rieck at guards.

Coch Jack Gray of Texas will muster up all the strength he has to combat the rangy Porkers. Captain Willie Tate, a six foot, four inch boy, probably will start at center against Freiburger.

Boudin' Bobby Moers, Texas' fleet guard who took several bumps in the Rice game that slowed him down in practice, probably will start at a guard despite his hurts. Sophomores Chester Granville and W. D. Houpt, a couple of bell ringers who started in the Oklahoma City tournament, are expected to play plenty against the Arkansas.

Checking $75,000 Investment

Freddie Hutchinson is pronounced fit by specialists examining Seattle's schoolboy pitching phenomenon at the request of Detroit, which gave the Pacific Coast League club $50,000 and four players for him. Is Sally Going to Steal a Fair Show?

This Is One of the Questions in 1939 to Be Answered

SAN FRANCISCO.—The long shadow of a little girl with a great big fan stretches across the spires and palaces of America's two premier playgrounds of 1939—the New York and San Francisco world's fairs.

The shadow belongs to blonde Sally Rand, who stole the show at Chicago's Century of Progress and increased the use of the word "nude."

An unspeakable question in preparations for 1939's two giant festivals has been: Shall Sally or any one like her steal this show?

From the east Grover Whalen, Manhattan's maestro, has spoken out: "There may be Sally Rands or dozens of Sally Rands. But we will not permit any dancer, nude or otherwise, to dominate the fair. If she does out she goes."

From San Francisco's Harris Connally: "We'd like to have Sally with us," he said. "She's a great little business woman. We'd like to have her with us in any capacity."

Sally Provides A Hint Sally herself, who just now is packing a San Francisco night club and taking half the gross receipts, threw out a hint in her Christmas cards. These showed her au naturel, turning her back on New York and striding across the map to San Francisco.

Wherever she plays, she'll probably be an attraction—papers in her 26th floor penthouse provide figures to prove that. She employs secret watchmen and auditors—knows so well as one else whether or not she's clicking.

"When I was in the Streets of Paris in Chicago, 23 per cent of the people entering the exposition came to see me," she said.

"In the second year I was at the Italian village an it got 17 per cent of all the business."

"At the Texas Centennial I had a concession—Sally Rand's Nude Ranch, with the 'D' in Nude crossed out and an 'N' put in. It got 27 per cent of all paid admissions."

"Just A Business" "Sally," said one of her admirers, "I'd never try to embrace you, because you'd probably pull out a slide rule and start figuring percentages. You've got them on the brain."

Sally retorted: "I've just made a business out of what most actresses have made a career."

Showmen at the San Francisco fair in the house, and Pilkinton voted for it in the senate.

Baylor Wins From Aggies, 38 to 34

Three Field Goals in Last Minutes Bring Baylor Victory

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—(AP)—Baylor's Bears, one of the hot favorites for the Southwest Conference basketball title were pressed to the utmost Thursday night to defeat the Texas Aggies, 38-34.

The Aggies never were behind until 15 minutes of the second half were gone, and a chilling scoring spree by Dub Walters, who hooped three field goals in the dying minutes, was needed to save the game for Baylor.

Dawson led the scorers, with 11 points. Grady Vaughn, Bear guard, and Judge Smith, Aggie guard, were runners-up with 10 each.

say she probably has earned $500,000 net and has sold most of it away in annuities.

Sally herself is essentially a business concern operating in sizeable finances and putting the dividends where she can't squander them.

She travels with a prodigious file of photos, advertising copy, press notices, radio scripts, and a substantial staff of employees.
